

Jeff Lincoln Art + Design Presents
Geotex, Geometric Abstraction in Textile Art
May 28th - Sept 15th, 2023

SOUTHAMPTON, New York, May 20, 2023 -- Geotex is an exhibition of textile-based artworks that feature geometry in abstraction. These unique works employ traditional weaving, felting, knitting, knotting, printing and stitching that celebrate geometric patterns and forms.

A large group of works will be exhibited in various forms including works on paper, sculpture and wall hangings by a group of artists known for their deep exploration of textile patterns and structures. This wide-ranging summer show at Jeff Lincoln Art + Design's Southampton gallery opens May 28th and runs through September 15th, 2023.

"This show gathers a group of artists with whom I connect with through a mutual interest in the language of abstraction as expressed in the textile medium," says Liz Collins, the NYC based artist known for her dynamic work in textiles. "While we work in different ways, we all employ the language of abstraction with geometry to express ideas about spiritual vernaculars, mathematical systems, natural phenomena, and other concepts."

"I am happy that we are now in a time where this kind of work is taken seriously and that the medium of textiles is expanding people's understanding of the ideas and the techniques that have been embedded in art and design for centuries," says the artist. For more information, please contact the gallery or visit the website at www.collectiveartdesign.com.

Artists: Tanya Aguiniga, Samantha Bittman, Julia Bland, Nancy Brooks Brody, Liz Collins, Jesse Harrod, LoVid, Toni Ross, Laurel Sparks, Brent Wadden, Sarah Wertzberger, Kristine Woods.

Two Mirrors, Julia Bland, 2022
Image courtesy Derek Eller Gallery

200 North Sea Road, Southampton, New York

COLLECTIVEARTDESIGN.COM | INFO@COLLECTIVEARTDESIGN.COM | 631 353 3445